Welcome

A reference Another view on the timeline

I am inline referencing to an image (figure 1).

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipisicing elit. Doloribus, fugit, id. Unde nulla incidunt sapiente reiciendis atque similique totam, facere earum dolores. Soluta earum, autem! Fugit, iure, repellat. Nesciunt, inventore.

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipisicing elit. Sequi necessitatibus aliquam nisi odio et perferendis reiciendis porro, fugit repellat similique consequuntur dolor perspiciatis? Laborum doloribus ducimus alias sequi sapiente! Voluptate.

Then I want to say that the image I just showed image (figure 1) is awesome.

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipisicing elit. Optio nemo eius autem, saepe dolore nam iste ex inventore, minus neque mollitia molestias facere asperiores vel voluptas beatae esse perspiciatis cupiditate.

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipisicing elit. Dolore commodi maxime laborum cupiditate nam consequuntur in. Laudantium autem, accusantium! Iure, autem quas quis, odit fugit dolor voluptatum esse quisquam asperiores.

And then I want to display a group of images :

And then I want to point to an online resource.

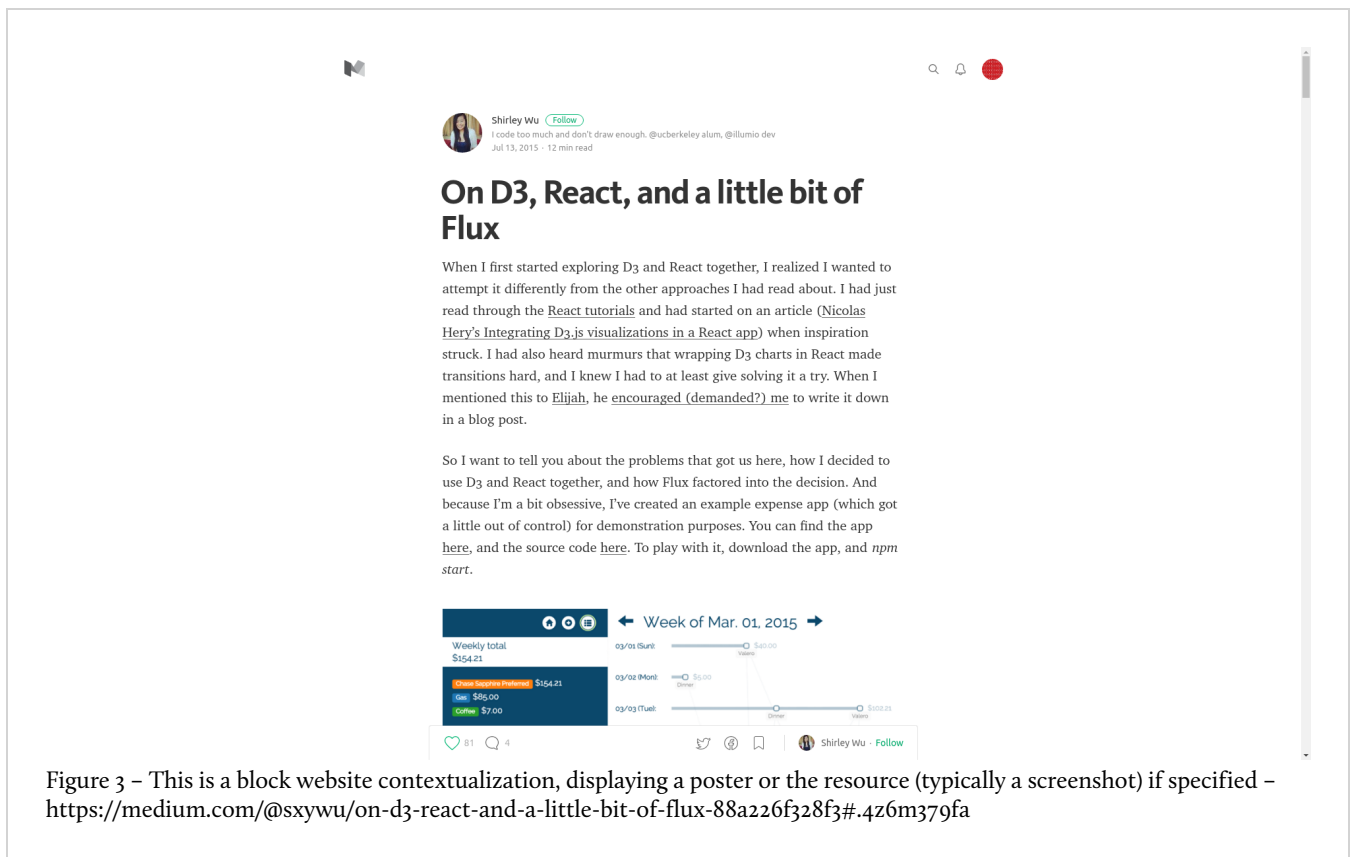

Figure 3 – This is a block website contextualization, displaying a poster or the resource (typically a screenshot) if specified – <https://medium.com/@sxywu/on-d3-react-and-a-little-bit-of-flux-88a226f328f3#.4z6m379fa>

I will talk about that<sup>2</sup>:

Another reference with unnamed contextualizer

I will first quote in a book where someone that says «it's not possible » (CHARALAMBOS et BORDER, 1994). But I would like to quote again my group of images (figure 2).

Then I should have an ibid here<sup>3</sup>

And as say a lot of people[^]{MARTIN et COLEMAN, 2002, pp. 30-40}, publishing could be simpler.

And for the footnotes, I want to say that Martin said that<sup>4</sup>

Whe Martin says «there has to be some change » (ibid.).

Now let's say I want to link to this timeline and continue my paragraph quietly.

Welcome to my awesome book.

Thanks to all !

Momanddad The dog My imaginary friend Serge

I am just there, not linked to content.md. I should be put at the end of content by alphabetical order.
