Welcome

A reference Another view on the timeline

I am inline referencing to an image (figure 1).

Then I want to say that the image I just showed image (figure 2) is awesome.

And then I want to display a group of images :

And then I want to point to an online[1] resource.

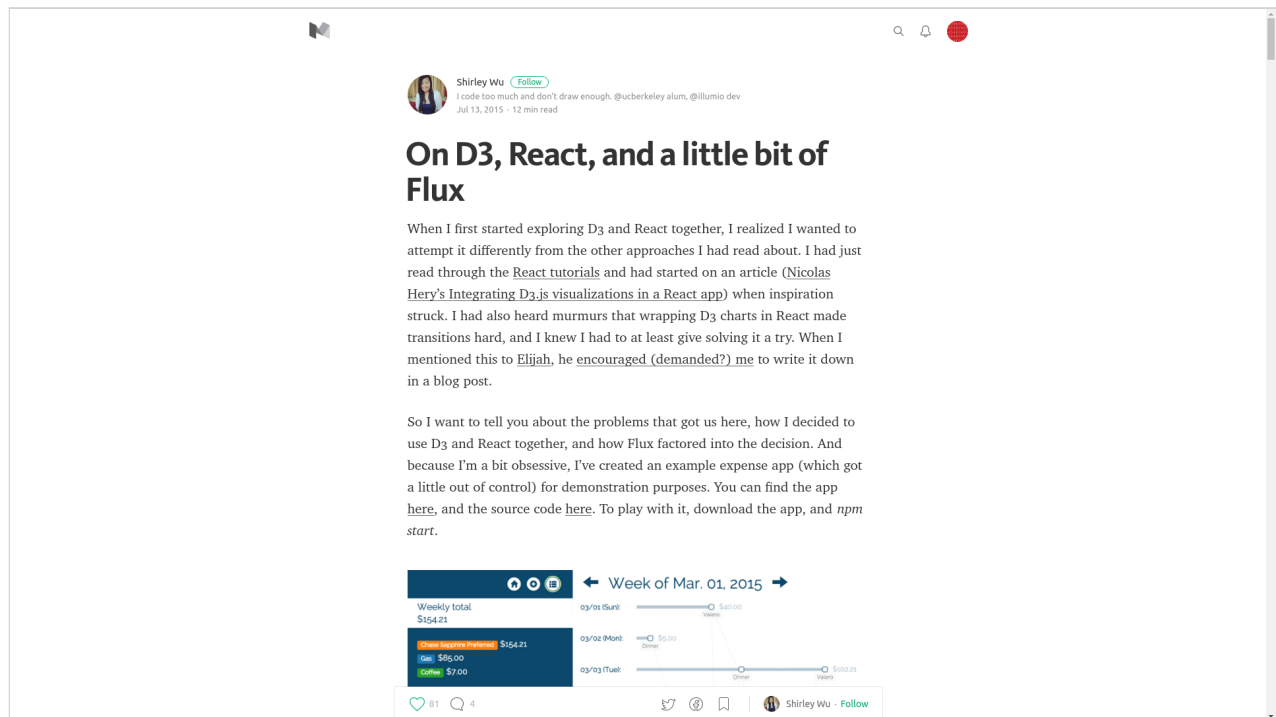

Figure 4 – This is a block website contextualization, displaying a poster or the resource (typically a screenshot) if specified – https://medium.com/@sxywu/on-d3-react-and-a-little-bit-of-flux-88a226f328f3#.4z6m379fa

I will talk about that[2] :

Another reference with unnamed contextualizer

I will first quote in a book where someone that says «it's not possible » (CHARALAMBOS et BORDER, 1994). But I would like to quote again my group of images (figure 5).

2. with a footnote here

Then I should have an ibid here [3]

And as say a lot of people[4], publishing could be simpler.

3. CHARALAMBOS et BORDER, 1994, p. 12.
4. MARTIN et COLEMAN, 2002, pp. 30-40

And for the footnotes, I want to say that Martin said that[5]

Whe Martin says «there has to be some change » (MARTIN et COLEMAN, 2002).

Now let's say I want to link to this timeline and continue my paragraph quietly.

Welcome to my awesome book.

Thanks to all !

Momanddad The dog My imaginary friend Serge

I am just there, not linked to `content.md`. I should be put at the end of content by alphabetical order.
